Sterling Tradition

The last familial owners of the home, the Sterling Family, held a long-standing custom of welcoming extended family and friends into their home to enjoy festivities of holidays. Mary Theresa “Aunt Theresa” Sterling, known for devotion to her family and to the community, kept the Easter tradition of creating baskets and organizing a children’s egg hunt well into her seventies.

Current Sterling House owners, Dean Beck and Jo Ann Beck, wish to continue this Easter tradition and have plans for offering future seasonal events.

It is our hope to recreate some of the Sterling family traditions by offering events and celebrations that bring our community together. Leonardtown is returning to a thriving neighborhood and we’d like The Front Porch at the Sterling House to be a gathering place that continues the traditions of the Sterling hospitality.
